

Hitting what you're aiming at with your pistol is every shooter's end goal, and let's face it, spending time on the range is much more fun when you can do that consistently. That said, hitting your target right where you mean to with a pistol is easier said than done! Shooting a pistol is a complex and dynamic activity and it can be really difficult to know exactly what went wrong when you miss your mark. If you're looking for help with your marksmanship then come and give this workshop a try. You don't need any fancy gear, and the session is limited to 6 people, so you get lots of individual attention, and it's cheap! At only $100 for the 2 hour session, it's a great deal! Or you could spend twice that much on more ammo to keep practicing without a coach and keep on missing. In fact, If you don't display measurable improvement by the end of the session, I'll keep working with you until you do!

All that you need is a pistol, a holster, ear and eye protection, and 150 rounds of ammunition.

Spots are limited, and you must register ahead of time. Email Adam Williams at makeready413@gmail.com, or call 413-522-6085, or Visit www.makereadyproject.com for more information.
